Blue-Eyed Girl Babies
Two Kinds of Treasure
How Bond Inflation Works
Russia Approves

By Arthur Brisbane

Copyright, 1935, by King Features Syndicate, Inc. All rights reserved. No part of this article may be reproduced without permission.

Miami, Fla., Nov. 25.—Mrs. Charles D. Gibbons has found a blue-eyed girl baby, and finds little demand for children more than six years old.

"Almost all the people want to adopt a blue-eyed baby girl." They should know that ninety per cent of a child's future depends upon heredity and heredity. A human being is like a pebble. Polishing will produce a diamond if the pebble happens to be a rough diamond. No amount of polishing will make a diamond of the other kind of pebble.

Polishing to a stone is what environment is to children. A child's possibilities depend upon grandfathers, a grandmother, reaching back a thousand generations. You cannot go back and change the grandfathers. But education, kindness and patience will make a useful human being of any normal child.

In Jacksonville, this state, gentlemen fitting out an expedition to hunt for pirate-treasure think they know where the gold is. They may find it, probably will not.

Other gentlemen are figuring out similar treasure expeditions in Wall Street, regardless of what happened when they did that in 1929.

Men hunting pirate-treasure and Wall Street treasure will have plenty of excitement, and that probably is well worth the effort.

"A dull life is no life."

A flock of 1900 broadbill ducks on the way South sit, unfortunately, in a mass of crude oil, pumped out of a storage barge in New Haven harbor. The oil "soaked their feathers," which absorbed it like a sponge.

The wind blew them off to sea and a game official thought they would all die because they were weakening themselves rapidly attempting to clean their oil-soaked feathers from their breasts.

How does that plucking-bearing inflation bonds, our plucking feathers from Uncle Sam's financial breast?

Americans that would like to understand our government's "billions in bonds" system, representing very inflation, nothing but a bill of exchange, to pay, may get information from E. C. Romf, Miami banker. He says:

"The banks today are subscribing billions upon billions of bond issues. (Please note that I said billions.) The government is like this: Our bank in Belmont, say, one million dollars in bonds which the government pays interest and, what's more, gives us tax exemption, and then we sell them 'special bonds' upon which we do not pay interest. We sell for the same price as the government's bonds. If there is a 'tick in the market,' it's the first prices in manufacturing credit. The government spends billions in bond politicians do, and what is one man's credit is also another man's cash, paper money, credit, and deposits go up and down."

"Now there is a lot of stupid credit in a lot of stupid bonds, and before long we will be doing the same old stupid thing that has caused so much tragedy and suffering in the past."

Mr. Romf's national program suggested to the bankers' convention is simple:

"An adequate army of airplanes and a navy of submarines. No nation would get far in attacking us—and if we took a vote on 'foreign war and entanglements,' the answer would be 'Mind our own business.'"

Mr. Romf thinks it will take some time to stop banks from making money in debt, relief, etc., and talks of a sixteen-year-old mountain boy who stopped Jesse James and said that he had seen his mother.

"The boy looked mad. Jesse told him that he had seen a woman with a pair of boots on, khaki pants, brown shirt and a ten-gallon hat. He said that he had killed the boy as he dashed down the road, 'his eyes trying to come out.'"

Mr. Romf thinks it will take some government some time to "kill" the ten or twelve millions of debt, relief and imitation pig clients.

Russia approves the 50 to 1 figure of nations "gang-up" against Italy. She approves sanctions that might mean that Italy is starving Italian women and children.

That is what Russia says, but it is not necessarily what Russia either just as it killed with Louis the Eleventh of France to see that his son of his kind of nation attacking and weakening each other. They made him stronger.

Washington, Nov. 26 (AP)—The government and the utilities swung today into a new scrap over the Utilities Holding Company Act.

In New York city the securities commission asked a federal court to order Electric Bond & Share Company and five of its intermediate holding companies to register.

The New York suit named a utility holding company which would be permitted to acquire and operate about half of the securities of companies which then may supervise certain activities of the commission.

In Washington the North American Company, another of the holding groups, asked a permanent injunction preventing enforcement of the act plus a court decision that the law is unconstitutional.

The New York suit named a utility holding company which would be permitted to acquire and operate about half of the securities of companies which then may supervise certain activities of the commission.

Another drive, aimed at banishing money slot machines, was in the making.

Reports came from the State House that Governor Cuyler considered sending a squad of state troopers throughout the state to look for the gambling racket.

YEAR-LONG WAR
The drive on gambling came in a climax when attention was called to the rivalry between Boston, New York, Washington and Chicago racketeers over the "stream" of candy machines—a rivalry which threatened to break into open warfare.

One Manhattan drugstore complained that two men cut the wires of his candy machine and hid him to get one of another make.

Federal Attorney Ford said he would ask four indictments in connection with a Worcester church 500,000 bean party, during that racketeers printed in Rochester, N. Y.

ETHIOPIANS, 2 GOVERNORS DIE IN BATTLE

ITALIAN TROOPS DEFEATED BY RAINFALL

Rome, Nov. 25 (AP)—One hundred Ethiopians, including two provincial governors, were reported to have been killed in a battle north of Addis Ababa today.

The communists said:

"On the Somaliland front, General Graziani received information of a concentration of Ethiopians at Lamma-Sellito, on the Tiber river, 100 kilometers north of Addis Ababa.

"He sent a swift column which launched a surprise attack November 22.

"After five hours of bitter fighting, the enemy was routed. There were left on the field about 100 enemy dead, among them two divisional commanders. They were Abba Guracelle and Ararat. The first was a lieutenant of Fittauri Barabeh, who previously was wounded.

"We captured 50 rifles, several pistols and an ammunition dump.

"Our losses were four dead, five wounded and two missing, all natives."

Italian advance patrols braved discouraging Ethiopian rain today to patrol in their pursuit of enemy bands from the Tigris and Shabab regions west of Makale on the northern front.

The Italian invaders were aided by airplanes which poured over the ground forces, ready to swing into action with machine guns at the first sight of Ethiopian forces, but the infantry found the mopping up operations hard.

Natives told Italian correspondents that the showers might be forebodings of a rainy period which would impede seriously the first major Italian advance.

DONNA G. C. GONZAGO
Believes in International Marriage

ITALIAN NOBLEMAN'S WIFE VISITS PARENTS

Predicting victory for Italy and lauding the loyalty of the Italian people to Mussolini, Donna Jocelyn Catalano Gonzago, American wife of an Italian nobleman, has returned to her native Boston for a two months' visit with her mother.

Donna Jocelyn is the former Jocelyn de Blois Bush, daughter of the socially prominent Mrs. Henry Sturgis Bush of 132 Charles street, Back Bay.

Her husband, Marcello Fabrizio Catalano Gonzago, member of one of Italy's most famous families, is now at Asmara, starting point of the advance of the Italian armies into Ethiopia.

When the engagement of the couple was first announced seven years ago, it was reported that Mussolini had frowned upon it, in accordance with his policy of opposing marriages of Italian prominent in public life to foreigners.

TROTH BROKEN

The engagement was broken but re-announced later, with the statement that the marriage would abandon his political career. But the Boston woman revealed that he was a government representative at Paris until war broke out, when he was sent to Asmara as an official in the intelligence corps to supervise the news correspondents. She said she was not aware that Mussolini thought that international marriages resulted too frequently in divorce.

"At any rate," she said, after her reunion with her mother.

UNITED STATES 'HOLDING BAG' ON WAR OIL

London, Nov. 25 (AP)—High British quarters showed concern today over what effect the League of Nations' delay in action on oil sanctions against Italy might have on public opinion in the United States.

A British source made the terse observation that the United States "is left holding the bag."

It was officially stated at Whitehall that "the British policy on oil sanctions remains unchanged."

Pressed for a full and definite clarification of the policy, however, officials refused to say whether Great Britain would demand action at Geneva as soon as Premier Laval's status in the situation was cleared up.

'Holding Bag' Role Disturbs Washington

Washington, Nov. 25 (INS)—France and Great Britain's attitude of leaving the United States literally "holding the bag" in the oil sanctions against Italy, officials here today said.

The State Department was obviously concerned over the Anglo-French move, repeated in some quarters as an omen that Britain and France would not hesitate to "run out" on the United States if it suited their own interests.

League to Take Up Oil Embargo in December

Geneva, Nov. 25 (AP)—League of Nations' officials said today that the meeting to discuss the imposition of an oil embargo against Italy probably would be December six or nine.

Rumania and India have joined with Soviet Russia in expressing readiness to extend the existing embargoes against exports to Italy to include oil, coal, iron, and steel.

India made no reservation, but Rumania, like Russia, made the acceptance conditional upon the being instituted by all producing and exporting states.

New Dealers' Psalm of Life

By BERTON BRALEY

Tell us not in mournful numbers
That our debts are out of hand,
That bureaucracy encumbers
Everything that we have planned.

That we're headed, and we show it,
For a fiscal cataclysm;
Tell us not—for though we know it,
'Taint constructive criticism!

Tell us not that what we borrow
All the citizens must pay;
We should fret about tomorrow
When we've got the jobs today!

Though we tax each cent thou earnest
And our promises fall flat,
When election time retumst
Farley will attend to that!

Let us then be up and doing,
Piling paper billions high,
Planning, spending, I.O.U.-ing,
With no limit but the sky!

HITS NAZI 'ROBBERY'

Foreigners in Peril, Says Citron

Berlin, Nov. 25 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency)—Congressman William M. Citron of Connecticut said today that opposition to the Berlin Olympic Games is fully justified on the grounds that Germany is discriminating against Jews in sports.

Here on a survey of the Jewish question in connection with the preparations for the Olympics next summer, the congressman said that after his return to Washington he would summon a conference of Congressmen to report what he has seen.

"Discriminations against Jews are reaching the point of actual robbery," Congressman Citron asserted. "Jews are being compelled to sell out their businesses and are not even permitted to take out of Germany the money for the property sold."

"I am leaving under the impression not only that Germany is discriminating against its own Jews but also against American Jews. (The reference was to American films in which Jews are not permitted to be shown in Germany.)"

"Germany is not safe for foreigners. I was definitely spoiled under during my stay in Berlin."

U. S. AGAIN DUNS ON WAR DEBTS

Washington, Nov. 25 (INS)—Uncle Sam today reminded the debt defaulting nations of Europe that on December 15 they will owe this government nearly $1,000,000,000 in due payments.

Formal diplomatic notes were dispatched by the State Department to Great Britain, France and nine other debtor nations. They were billed for a total of $60,514,177.54.

"Germany is not safe for foreigners. I was definitely spoiled under during my stay in Berlin."

LAVAL HELDS TO LEFTISTS TO SAVE FRANC

Paris, Nov. 25 (AP)—Premier Pierre Laval today yielded to the demands of the Leftists for the dissolving of Nationalist forces, such as the War Veterans' Croix de Feu, to save the franc and to defend his cabinet against threat of overthrow.

The cabinet agreed on a proposal, now pending in Parliament, to appeal to the Chamber of Deputies for immediate discussion of Laval's financial measures.

"This decision means Laval will demand an immediate vote of confidence for his decrees law, which are intended to defend the franc against speculation and the budget uncertainty now causing a heavy outflow of gold, with danger of a virtual devaluation of the franc."

Blood Revolt Threat Is to Kill All Radicals

Paris, Nov. 25—Threat of a "bloody revolution," in which virtually all former radical members of the French cabinet are marked for immediate public execution, hung over Paris today.

Popularly published gravely the accusation that Colonel De La Rocque's "Futur Croix" members, said to number a million in Paris and throughout France, had been prepared for a march on the Chamber of Deputies that body reconvenes Thursday.

This march, according to the paper, is to be the signal for the revolt to overthrow the Laval ministry—revolt that has been planned in detail by De La Rocque's organization.

The plan continues:

"The plan of attack includes an assault on the Chamber of Deputies, the central telegraph and telephone offices and the ministries."

"During the first hours of the coup, a certain number of executions are foreseen, and among those being marked are nearly all of the former radical ministers."

Deposed Emperor Of Ethiopia Is Dead

Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press

Addis Ababa, Nov. 25—Lij Yassu, deposed emperor long reputed to be a prisoner in golden chains, is dead.

The grandson of former Emperor Menelik, and cousin of the present Emperor Iyasu, died in a villa, prison specially constructed for him at Tiera Mulu, near Harar.

Halle Selassie, who became regent and heir to the throne to share the rule with Queen Zauditu, daughter of Menelik, when Lij Yassu was deposed by the British chiefs in 1914, went into mourning for his predecessor.

Italy Slashes Cotton Imports for Next Year

Rome, Nov. 25 (AP)—showing how economic sanctions against Italy will affect one of her chief imports, the Italian Cotton Institute in a circular issued today sets a new low for cotton imports next year.

The quota for the first three months of 1936 is only 15 per cent of that for the same period a year ago. Cotton firms having more than 60 days' stock are excluded from importing cotton.

Masked Bandits Rob Revere Store

Three masked men, armed with pistols forced Joseph Criss of the Revere store, proprietor of a drug store, and a customer, Charles Belmont, of West street, Revere, into the rear of the store, while they rifled the cash register.

ITALIANS CHEER AMERICANS

Rome, Nov. 25 (AP)—Italian made apologies to two American physicians and their wives who said they were persecuted by Fascist students' mob in Padua last Saturday, the American embassy said today.

"Nothing has marred our happiness in six years and we are both equally devoted to our little daughter, Martha, who came across the ocean with me."

"A letter from my husband from Asmara was waiting for me here when I arrived. He does not believe the war will last long. He foresees victory."

"It is really marvelous the way the Italian people are standing behind Mussolini and the government. Because the League threatens sanctions, they are conserving automobile fuel and food. Even the fit are queuing on meat, voluntarily. Everybody is abiding two days a week."

"I admire Mussolini very much. The people of Italy are not excited about conflict, simply confident, and hopeful that it will be short. I am going back to Rome in two months and by that time my husband hopes to be there to meet me."

WINTER'S HERE! BASKET NEEDS HELP

The coldest November 25th in 54 years. No—this isn't a weather report, but wasn't it cold? Even when you went from a warm home and a good hot blanket to the pleasant warmth of a well-heated store or office. Brisk and bracing weather!

On sure—BUT Winter came to Boston's poorer sections, too. Take a look through a broken window-pane of any one of a dozen tumble down shacks the Christmas Basket Fund Editor of the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser knows about. Where homeless mothers and hungry children huddle together without warmth—without sufficient food—without a mother's love—without a father's love—without a little or nothing to eat.

A "tumble-down shack" is a romantic and quaint—a tip-top alleyway. An "old mother" has a three-in-one rocking-chair, sounds inviting, too. But through-out the Boston area there's a mother—most old in years but worn with the worry of trying to keep five, six, eight little ones from freezing, from starving. Three old enough to go to school—but only one or two from sweater; no coats; a pair or two of stockings. A sick baby, lying on some lathered mat, not between two chairs. Not a penny!

TS UP TO YOU
Which is why this year's Christmas Basket Fund got off to an early start. We hope to make a little record for the 25th annual American and Sunday Advertiser sale to make possible a Merry Christmas Day in thousands of dwellings where despair is the rule—where the fire is the only friend.

We need your help, too, Mr. and Mrs. Goodfellow, as never before! The smallest contribution goes. The Christmas Basket Fund Editor already has received so many heart-breaking appeals—so many from mothers. For an example, let's call this letter:

CASE NO. 1.
Dear Basket Editor,
I am writing you to ask you a please send me a basket for Christmas. I have eight in family and expect another about New Year's Day.
My husband is not working ready and my daughter makes a week as a mother's help. I know I won't be able to have a Christmas dinner. I am sorry. I take all the little change I get to pay rent and try to keep my half warm and barely fed. We are not on the welfare and I do not get aid from anyone. So please do not forget us and May God Bless You.
ELP SOME FAMILY.
This family lives in the South End. Across wishing to help them, we do so by calling the Boston American Christmas Basket Fund, 4000.

Next Sunday night, December 1, is final month's drive for this year's Christmas Basket Fund. With a special performance of "Three Men on a Horse"—the high-price winning show now playing at the Plymouth Theatre. Extra proceeds are to go to the Christmas Basket Fund and tickets are on sale at The Mayfair, May's Drug Store, on Tremont street and the Plymouth Theatre box-office.

BENEFIT DANCE.
Next among the benefit parties has for arranged is the dancing party at the Normandie Ballroom set for Wednesday evening, December 4, one week from tomorrow night. The Play-Way Club, composed of employees of the Boston American and Sunday Advertiser, is giving the party, admission to which is priced at only 75 cents for gentlemen and 40 cents for ladies. Tickets may be obtained at Christmas Basket Fund Headquarters.

Sunday night, December 8, and again the following Sunday, December 15, there will be parties for the benefit of the fund at the Mayfair and Brown Derby night clubs. Both beautiful and colorful affairs, late night.

U. S. WARS ON GAMBLING HERE

Y. duplicate number tickets and gathered in ninety per cent of the proceeds.
In this case, Ford charged, racketeers pocketed 50 per cent of the profit. Duplicate tickets, for 25 cents, were printed in Rochester, N. Y., brought here and sold, racketeers pocketing all the proceeds from this sale.
Of this case, Ford said:
"I have a partial report from Levin. Included are the names of the men we will proceed against. CHURCH MADE VICTIM
"I might also add that we are getting after that fake Montreal hospital lottery."
"In the Worcester case we will show that the church was innocently inveigled into the aims of racketeers and how duplicate tickets were printed and the innocent public cheated out of thousands of dollars."
"The number pool racket is being run in the investigation and several cities and towns are involved. The manner in which will be able to still this racket is by showing its operation is inoperative."
"We have the names of a lot of Boston agents who have been successfully operating the number pool racket."
"We warn the public to be careful with its money and not to be misled by these racketeers."

Dropping their rivalry, Boston racketeers combined today and opened their own drive against the "digger" machine war.
At moving vans rated police from hotels, cafes, clubs and other places, lawyers retained by the racketeers were setting up lines for a vigorous court battle.
Tonight at 6 o'clock is the deadline set by Police Commissioner McWensley for removal of the machines from public places.
He based his order on a court decision ruling them illegal, but today the lawyers retained by the racketeers asserted that this was only a lower court decision and "for from final."
"The commissioner, it is understood, is prepared to reply with the lawyers retained by the racketeers, who are now actual gambling machines which throw back real money—nickels, quarters and half dollars—to the successful player."
There are many such slot machines still in operation throughout the city and play on them is heavy, despite the fact that few players other officials, called when rivalry between Boston and New York gangs for control of the racket threatened to break out of police control.

The first evidence that violence would be employed in the war came when two men called at the Twin Pharmacy, 310 West Main, Mattapan, and after warning Irving Dierman, the proprietor, against using the type of "digger" machine there, cut the electric wire and put it out of commission.
Dierman notified police, and it was then that authorities realized that gangland was prepared to fight it out for control.

STORE MAN FOUND GUILTY
In Roxbury court today, Benjamin Labovitch, drugstore proprietor in Dudley street, Uphams corner, was found guilty on charges of setting up and promoting a lottery and allowing gaming implements to be kept on the premises.
He was alleged to have had a machine of the "mail rolling" type, with prize being given for certain numbers, run by Bernard John Grossen of Dudley street station testout receiving a prize.
The case was continued until tomorrow.

The challenge was conveyed to the police by the lawyers themselves, when they telephoned police headquarters, asked their "rights" in the matter of "digger" machines. Some of the machines will be left in the street beyond tonight's deadline, police were told, and it seemed the lawyers will make test cases out of the seizure.
At the same time, the drive of the commissioner was said to have the whole-hearted support of Governor Currier, with the added report that the governor was contemplating sending state troopers into communities outside of Boston for the same purpose.
The order to seize all the machines remaining in stores, taverns and restaurants after 6 o'clock was issued by Superintendent of Police Martin H. Kane.
It followed a hurried conference with Commissioner McWensley and

RIVAL TAILED IN JURY FIX

Raymond F. Duval, 33, of Prospect street, Revere, formerly a constable, was found guilty today by a jury in Suffolk Superior Court of perjury in connection with alleged jury-fixing.

The case was set aside at a day's hearing trial in the Superior Court last January.
Duval was one of approaching lawyers, when he appeared before Donahue F. Carpenter, a special investigator in state insurance cases. But in the Superior Court he contradicted himself, and the lawyer allegedly involved was acquitted.

While Duval was found guilty today of two counts of perjury, he was found not guilty by directed verdict of obstructing justice and bribery.

Cuddy, Six Others Rescued in Fire

William H. (Bill) Cuddy, dean of amateur fight promoters in Boston, was rescued today with six members of his family today when fire broke out in the basement of his three-story home in North Anderson street, West End.
Cuddy with Cuddy were his son, William H. Jr., a fireman stationed in the Bowdoin square station, and two other sons, Richard and Frank, all asleep on the second floor.
On the third floor were Cuddy's daughter, Mrs. Mary Walsh and her two daughters, Catherine and Margaret.

The fire, which started in the basement, was discovered by police officers passing by in a patrol car. Cuddy is president of the St. Joseph's T. A. Society.

G-Men Probe Bruno Clues in Ashby Camp

We traced Hauptmann. None has turned up since then."

Reports that evidence bearing upon the Lindbergh baby kidnapping and murder had been unearthed in Massachusetts by investigators for convicted Bruno Richard Hauptmann were under investigation by G-Men here today.

The reports were three:
1. That in a deserted house in Ashby, near Hingham, was found a letter apparently written by someone who knew the kidnaper.
2. That in this same house had been found a lead solder to resemble that used in the kidnap ladder.
3. That nearly $700 in Lindbergh ransom money has recently turned up in Boston and Worcester.

Authority for each report, according to the Associated Press in New York, was an unnamed "chief investigator" for Hauptmann. Hauptmann is under sentence of death at Trenton, N. J., for the crime.

C. Lloyd Fisher, chief counsel for Hauptmann, told the Boston Evening American over long distance telephone from Washington, N. J., that the ransom money was unearthed in Massachusetts, among other places, and that they were under investigation.

He denied he had been here.

"BROMIDING" CLUE
John White, Newville attorney representing Fisher here, admitted that a promising clue was under investigation and that its worth would be definitely known in a day or two.

The Associated Press, in a wire from New York, quoted the unidentified Hauptmann "chief investigator" as saying:

"I have been informed that at least $700 in Lindbergh ransom money has been recovered by the Boston Federal Reserve Bank."

Woods Like in Ladder

This letter is said to have read in part:
"Why don't you return that poor little Lindbergh boy? You have had it long enough."
One angle reported under inquiry was that the child had been in or near Ashby after he was stolen.

According to the Associated Press informant, the writer and recipient of the letter found another clue and a full account of the letter would be given by the "chief investigator" for Hauptmann. The story went on to say that the "same type" used in the kidnap ladder and a being examined by experts.

BABY ARTICLES FOUND
But in the house, it was stated, were found several articles for baby use as well as clippings of other kidnappings scattered in a room similar to the one that started the whole three years ago.

The "chief investigator" for the condemned man was quoted as saying that while he was not sufficiently versed in cryptography to ascertain whether the handwriting of the ransom note was the same as that on the letter found in Ashby, several identical characteristics had been noted and were being examined by an expert.

These, he was quoted as saying, were cuttings and dots found by an expert in the ransom notes but never traced in evidence.

DEBT INCREASED BY RAW DEAL- BANCROFT

Sounding a warning against an attitude of "unrestrained optimism," James R. Bancroft, president of the American Institute of Finance, today told Harvard Business School alumni at a luncheon in Boston Chamber of Commerce that the Raw Deal lender took to "liquidate debt by establishing more debt."

Assailing Chairman Martin R. Foster of the Federal Reserve Board as a "worthy successor to these much-heralded Coolidge and Harding administration officials who added fuel to the flames of speculation in the inflationary period of the '20's," he said:

"Following the well established New Deal practice of setting up alarm men and loudly knocking them down, Chairman Foster points to the lack of bank credit in the securities market as a factor of strength."

"He ignores the fact that the United States government has already bonded over $5,000,000,000 in individuals, institutions and a host of national activities."

"Certainly, this is credit extension—with a vengeance—just as much as was the same extension of bank credit in the late 1920's. We are liquidating debt by establishing more debt."

"The road to real prosperity lies in extensive reworking of the capital markets. Which, in turn, depends upon budget balancing and a return in a definite good standard, elimination of much of the recent New Deal legislation and—through tariff readjustments—laying the basis for a marked and genuine expansion of international trade."

"While we are having the most marked period of industrial recovery since the depths of the depression in 1933, there are everywhere that New Deal methods are being the cause for a protracted period of real industrial recovery and prosperity in the United States," I doubt it."

"Real recovery from depression and the restoration of prosperity comes when capital becomes convinced that the long range outlook warrants extensive development and goes to work again developing natural resources."

"Industry as a whole faces increasing taxation in 1936 which will probably narrow existing profit margins."

Lady Unadorned May Be Art But Police Ban Her For Boys

Stratford, Conn., Nov. 26 (AP)—There's no beautiful naked lady in this town at 7:30 p. m. on the day tomorrow.

But owing to the edict of Police Chief Nichols—who stubbornly maintains he sees no difference between an artist's nude model and a nude lewdly-bodily dancer—Don Weir, art teacher, said he would have his students under 21.

"These youngsters," he said, "rather than have to travel four miles to Bridgeport to study anatomy from living models; or, of course, they may come to New York, where there are art schools using living models."

Weir, who attended the town's sessions by arriving less than two years ago with a luxuriant set of black whiskers, and who confessed those sessions by murdering one of the loveliest girls in town, Almina Crawford, at all times' midnight, was the major topic of conversation here today.

NO LAW FOR IT

Chief Nichols indicated he was actually aware that he had only partly preserved the town's good name by forbidding the art teacher to allow any boys under 21 to gaze upon the divinity of curves in the basement of the aristocratic Crawford mansion.

"But," he said, "I have looked through the statue book from beginning to end and I can't find anything about artist's nude models. However, there is a law against women being unadorned."

Added women to me in a naked woman."

At Stratford High school, Principal Wentworth Rogers more or less concurred in this opinion. It was Principal Rogers who whispered to Chief Nichols he'd heard there was a nude girl down at the Crawford-Wire chateau, and thereby led to police action.

"Some time ago," said Rogers, "she made conventional models could be used to teach art to the young people—apples and bananas, for instance. You know—still life."

Rogers, a gray, tight-lipped little man, said he didn't believe Stratford art aspirants were "advanced enough" to look upon the nude from a purely artistic standpoint. He said a mother of two boys, students of Weir, had come to him "desperately concerned" with the fact that unadorned girls had appeared before her sons in the Crawford-Wire basement.

CAN'T UNDERSTAND IT

Weir, who has shaved off his whiskers and, hence, bears a superficial likeness to ordinary Stratfordians, said he couldn't, for the life of him, understand what the fuss was about.

"Neither, for that matter, can my students, nor some of their parents," he said.

All the parents, he said, were invited to sit in at a drawing-room life session of his sketch club. Some of them accepted, and afterward approved of their offspring's attentiveness.

There is, Weir said, only one way to learn how to draw life subjects—and that is from living models.

Home, Job Wait Mother If She Returns to Baby

KIND WOMEN
OFFER TO SHARE

Comfortable homes, jobs and financial assistance await "Mary Costa," the poverty-stricken mother who abandoned "Baby Dennis" last week in a St. Belpol street hallway.

The tragic separation of Mary and her infant son has touched the heart of New England. From almost every city and town, from Bridgeport, Ct., to remotest Vermont, letters have poured into the Boston Evening American office.

To Mary mothers have bared their souls, telling her those intimate details of their own lives that have glorified their womanhood, sharing with her their personal sorrows and offering her tender words of comfort only sorrow who has known deeper sorrow can speak.

Among these kind women is Mrs. Katherine Brail of 135 Billingsland, Norfolk Downs. Writing to Mary, she says:

"My appeal goes to you from a mother's heart. I ask you in the name of God to get your baby and give him all your love."

Offer of Home

"I have a comfortable home and I will gladly take your baby until you are able to do for yourself. In the same spirit of sympathy Mrs. Kathryn V. Shine, matron at the United States Hotel and mother of nine children, speaks to Mary.

"All Boston mothers wish to see you and 'Baby Dennis' happily reunited. A good girl is misled. The bad ones are too stupid. The contact someone soon."

Mrs. Dorothy M. Pryor, of 8 Brewer street, Jamaica Plain, promises Mary that all of Boston ably Dennis, City hospital founding, just doesn't go a bit for this foot printing business, and sterile-marked Patrolman Hersey Slack of the Warren avenue station isn't helping the situation much by pretending to be playing "little piggie goes to market." The record has to be made, however, and the finished prints, left and right, are now officially on file for benefit of the abandoned child division of the U. S. Department of Justice at Washington.

will rally to her assistance. She writes:

"The people of Boston will be very happy to share in the great privilege of making it possible for you to keep your baby."

"Go to your Dennis now and claim your happiness. He needs you. You need him. I know everything will come out all right."

Another beautiful example of motherly love is the letter of Mrs. Beatrice O'Connor, of 53 Newfield street, Plymouth. To Mary she says:

"You poor, dear child, you must have been nearly mad with worry to leave your darling baby. It must have been like leaving out your heart and leaving it behind."

Promise of Work

"But, please Mary, get your baby at once. I know everyone will help you. I am a mother of four children and I would beg in the street before I would give them up."

Sharing the same generosity is William A. Barrett, of Saugus, father of eight children.

"Perhaps, I can see you some work at the place where I am employed. They are kind and considerate people."

Picturing for Mary the joy that will be hers when "Baby Dennis" takes his first step, Mrs. Teresa McDonald, of 11 Salem place, Malden, consoles:

"I hope my message will soften your heart toward your darling son. Regardless of what the case may be, take him home with you. He is a handsome child. One day he will be proud of you. He is a precious gift to you from God."

"If you are financially unable to support your baby, let us know. We will help you."

A pardon for Mary's desertion of her child is offered by Mrs. David Patterson, of 807 Kent sixth street, South Boston. She writes:

"I cannot understand why so many criticize you or even call you heartless for deserting your baby. Who will employ a girl under such circumstances?"

"I can picture you living in a little room, heartbroken and yearning for your little one. But who realizes that you cannot provide comfort and food for him?"

"At least the necessities of life will be given him in his present care. Is it any wonder one facing such circumstances is driven to desperation?"

Letters Pour In

"I think it is a grand opportunity for someone with means to adopt this baby and give it the love and care they give to dumb animals."

With an opposite, but equally sympathetic view, Jessie A. Baxter, of 40 Kimball road, Warrington, sends a beautiful thought to Mary when she says:

"These little baby fingers are ten little bones that have bound you so tight that until the end of living they will hold you."

"No matter how you may try, where you may go, the vision of 'Baby Dennis' will always be with you."

There are hundreds of other letters to Mary, all testifying to New England's deep affection for a mother and her child. More will be printed.

Besides the tickets, 12 each price, totaling $25, will be awarded writers of the best letters.

MARTHA GIVES THANKSGIVING ADVICE

By MARTHA LEE
There is a pleasant bustle and bustle all around the house, but particularly in the kitchen in preparation for the Thanksgiving dinner.

Much can be done in advance of the actual day and especially should the linen, silverware and china be decided upon, for upon it will depend just what table decoration is used.

A wicker chopping or salad bowl is just the thing to use as a centerpiece for a seasonal array of fruits or vegetables, which will lend a real harvest air to the table.

What would be more colorful or practical than a centerpiece of cranberries, green and red pepper, carrots, celery, red cabbage, parsnips and pumpkins?

Here are some recipes to go with the menus given yesterday.

RAW CRANBERRY RELISH

1 pound (4 cups) cranberries
1 cup sugar
1 cup vinegar
1 cup honey

Put the cranberries through meat grinder. Pare orange with sharp knife, trim off white membrane leaving the pulp exposed on the surface.

Put rind and pulp through the grinder with sugar and beetroot. Let stand a few hours before serving. For future use pour in glass jar, seal and store in refrigerator.

It is particularly good with meats, but can be used on turkey.

SALAD DRESSING

1 pound sausage
1 cup cooled rice
10 cups dried celery

Seasoning to taste
Toss ingredients together until thoroughly mixed, and stuff turkey.

Put pepper, onion, chopped parsley, and onion, seasoning are most commonly used.

Variations

1.—Add a dressing not quite as thick. Combine meat with remaining cup of cold milk and stir into the mixture.

2.—Add a cup mushrooms—canal and mushrooms. Put in butter.

3.—Substitute wild rice for white rice.

4.—Use half bread cubes and half rice, brown the bread cubes in butter.

INDIAN PUDDING WITH ICE CREAM

1 cup milk
1 cup Johnny-cake meal
1 cup molasses
1 tsp. cinnamon
1 tsp. butter
1 cup milk
1 cup sugar

Scald 3 cups of milk in a double boiler. Combine meal with remaining cup of cold milk and stir into the mixture.

Combine molasses, cinnamon, butter and salt. Beat eggs thoroughly and combine with sugar. Stir into the mixture. Bake in water bath (275 deg. F.) until mixture sets, about 1 1/2 hours. Stir occasionally during the first hour. Serve with ice cream.

S. DEBT TOPS 29 BILLIONS; CUT LOOMS

Washington, Nov. 25 (INS)—Strenuous efforts are being made by the Roosevelt administration to prevent the public debt from plunging over the $30,000,000,000 mark before January 1, for political and psychological effect on the nation's business. High government officials said today.

The public debt today reached $29,327,773, of about 1200 million less than President Roosevelt's estimate of $30,725,438,400 to be struck next July 1. It has increased by more than $2,000,000,000 since last November, and $1,012,074,811 since July 1.

With expenditures thus far amounting to $2,940,750,000 in the new fiscal year, receipts of $1,428,765,288 in date have failed to meet the ordinary government expenses of $1,681,218,368. The relief outlay, aggregating $120,560,812, has been taken care of largely through borrowed money.

As a result of the rapid growth of the public debt, the administration was said to have initiated a program to:

1.—Instruct federal loan agencies to make collections wherever possible and keep advance commitments to a minimum.

2.—Get banks to rebuy preferred stock sold to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

3.—Speed up federal tax collections by using as collectors three thousand delinquent tax payers.

4.—Use half bread cubes and half rice, brown the bread cubes in butter.

5.—Add slightly higher rate.

6.—Use half bread cubes and half rice, brown the bread cubes in butter.

7.—Use half bread cubes and half rice, brown the bread cubes in butter.

8.—Use half bread cubes and half rice, brown the bread cubes in butter.

9 KILLINGS HINTED

Manhunters Shoot Hitch-Hiker

Okla. City, Okla., Nov. 25 (INS)—Chester Comer, 26-year-old hitch-hiking oil field worker, lay near death in a hospital here while authorities attempted to discover what part he might have played in the mysterious disappearance of at least five persons, and possibly four more.

The youth, shot and captured at Okla. City, 20 miles north of here yesterday, lay in a coma before authorities could piece together his unbroken mumbled words about "bodies" under a pipe line.

Comer had been the object of one of Oklahoma's greatest man hunts for three days as nearly 2000 volunteers and officers combed five counties for the youth wanted for questioning in connection with the disappearance of Ray Egan, prominent Shawnee attorney; L. A. Simpson, 40-year-old Piedmont farmer; Warren Simpson, his 14-year-old son; Lucile Stevens Comer, 23, the youth's wife and an expectant mother; and Elizabeth Chubb, Comer's former wife.

From Dallas came word that federal agents there were investigating the possibility that the youth might know something concerning the whereabouts of Burr I. Smith, 40-year-old Tulsa oilfield worker, who has been missing for months, while checks drawn by him on an express company were forged and cashed.

Comer was captured after a gun battle with Oscar Morgan, Okla. sheriff, near Marshall. Morgan suffered a bullet wound in his right chest.

E. Smith Hester, McClain county attorney, said that the youth's clothing revealed a note which read:

"If I'm killed in this case, I have nothing to regret for I'd like to see you all dead."

Warm Springs, Ga., Nov. 25 (INS)—The budget problem of next year's budget continued to occupy a good part of President Roosevelt's attention today, as Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Clegg, and Budget Director Bell and House Appropriations Chairman Buchanan remained over for a second day's conference.

The president here today of Aubrey Williams, right-hand man of Work Progress Administration.

Harry Hopkins, gave rise to some speculation that the budget conference would last information on the unemployment relief situation.

YIN FLEES, NEW ANTICOMMUNISM COUP ENDS

Tientsin, China, Nov. 26 (AP)—Japanese military authorities today began great evacuation of an airfield on the outskirts of the city. Japanese planes are flying over the city continuously.

Peking, Nov. 26 (IN)—Yin Zu-Keng, creator of the pro-Japanese "anti-Communist council" of East Hebei Province, fled from the capital of his new state into the familiar zone today to avoid arrest after a four hours' press conference by the Nanjing government.

Thus the latest anti-Communist movement apparently collapsed under mounting pressure from the central government, taken as a report from Chinese sources reached here stating from 10,000 to 12,000 Japanese troops had marched into China proper through Great Wall passes at Kailashan and other points.

Commander Sung Chih-Yuan, now loyalty to Nanking has been in doubt during the current Sino-Japanese crisis, definitely took sides with the Nationalist government by accepting Nanking's appointment as pacification commander of Chahar and Mopel provinces.

Meanwhile it was confirmed officially that Foreign Minister Kato Kiyomasa of Japan was negotiating a settlement of the North China problem with the following conditions as a basis:

- 1. End Chinese and Japanese opposition to Communism.
- 2. Cession of anti-Japanese activities throughout China.
- 3. Mutual Chinese and Japanese efforts to preserve peace in the Far East.

Gold Bridal Rings Offered for Italy

A reply was awaited today by P. A. Santuzzone, of the North End, the Secretary of State Cordell Hull on the question of whether the exchanging of gold wedding rings for "iron" rings by Boston women of Italian extraction to help the Italian government, was in violation of the neutrality code.

WORLD RADIO 82 Summer St., Boston Library 2761

One of the world's most famous dogs sniffed hungrily for food this morning outside a South End restaurant in the gloom cast by the elevated structure near Dover street.

It was Jack, lead dog of the Byrd expedition, who once broke a trail through the snow to within 100 miles of the South Pole.

Jack disappeared from his home in Bedford Sunday.

For all his massive size and his beautiful black and white coat, and his unusual stock of a tall-tail, the rest of it was frozen and he to be cut off—Jack got little more than passing notice until Edward Thomas of Queensbury street helped him.

Thomas is night manager of the Central Club Company and works in the garage at 421 Harrison avenue. He was out for breakfast.

Realizing that the dog was hungry, Thomas took him into the restaurant and bought him some meat. The dog wouldn't leave him, and Thomas took him back to the garage, where a glance at the papers showed him that it was the leader of the Byrd huskies.

Thomas called the police and held the dog for its owner, Stuart D. Paine of South Russell street, Beacon Hill, who was a dogged driver on the expedition.

"Jack" Seems O. K. Now

Many a dog would be glad to get lost as often as two or three times a week—if he were sure of as warm a welcome on being found as sled-dog Jack of the Byrd Antarctic expedition is enjoying in the arms of Dorothy Smith, girl patron of a South End restaurant. Jack was discovered sniffing hungrily at the window there today, after having been missing for 48 hours from his Bedford home.

GOLEE THEFT PUPPINS $25 FOR WOMAN

Theft of $50,000 worth of jewels at the home of Governor Curley, revealed exclusively in the Boston Evening American was the prize story last week for the News Tip Editor.

A Boston woman, unemployed, is enticed by $25 for giving the tip that led to the exclusive disclosure in the newspaper.

Many other good stories were received also last week from those who were alert enough, when they saw news to call:

"Liberty 4000" — News Tip Editor.

ALL NAMES KEPT
In the future, the News Tip Editor will withhold the names of all persons furnishing news, because many winners have asked that this be done.

Stories were so good last week that second prize money was split. A check for $25 goes to a Harvard student who was first on the phone with the story of the tragic fall of Richard Purcell, found dead in a stairwell in Whitworth House.

A $25 award goes to a quick-thinking eyewitness to a bad auto crash. His call to Liberty 4000 enabled the Boston Evening American to be first on the street with story and pictures.

Three $25 prizes were given this week.

OTHER $25 WINNERS
He sensed its news value and will receive a $25 check.

Another phoned an exclusive Everett story first while the third $25 check goes to a woman who phoned that a young man had been crushed to death.

Eleven others will receive $15 each for their alertness in sending news and speed in phoning it in.

A neighbor saw an Everett girl crumpled body of a Westwood man in a coal yard.

Medford resident was witness to a train and auto accident.

A neighbor saw an Everett girl fall three stories to her death.

THEY WIN $1 EACH
When Frank Long, killed in Governor Curley's fight, killed in Governor Curley's fight, killed in Governor Curley's fight.

Two persons were rescued in a Roxbury fire. A passerby realized the news value of such a story. He was one of the $25 awards.

A Boston woman phoned in the tip on the death of Dr. Duvally, former chief physician, found dead in his office from heart attack.

A young Melrose girl, a Dorchester youth, an Everett newspaperman, a Brighton mother, and a Milton mother were the five other $1 winners.

They knew news when they saw it. And they knew that the first thing to do is to call Liberty 4000 and ask for the News Tip Editor.

Remember the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser give away a total of $50 a week for tips.

Hill Girl Kept in Filthy, Crowded Dungeon

GIVES FIRST INTERVIEW

By MARQUETTE MOORE MARSHALL
Wise, Va., Nov. 26 (IN)—

"The one thing which helps me to bear the terrible ordeal through which I am passing is my conviction of complete innocence."

If I had to live with the knowledge that I had actually done the thing of which they accuse me I could not bear it.

Knowing that I have nothing with which to reproach myself is what keeps me going."

Thus Edith Maxwell, facing 25 years in prison for the murder of her father, challenged her accusers, in an exclusive interview, the first she has given.

She had come out of an almost literal dungeon, a basement steel cell in as filthy, crowded and uncomfortable a jail as I have ever entered.

She is confined in a space about six feet by six, in which there may be as many as six women prisoners.

Such is the purgatory through which this much-tried young woman has been passing for nearly six months, and she must look forward to several more months of it, at the least.

On Dec. 12, the motion for a new trial to be argued in the Supreme Court of the United States, which would free her of all charges, will be argued.

If the motion is denied and the case goes to the Supreme Court of Appeals, the delay will be even longer.

And yet, facing an dreary prospect of any further delay in a whole country regarded as the outrageous barbarity of the sentence.

A neighbor saw an Everett girl crumpled body of a Westwood man in a coal yard.

Kin Plan Appeal Fight CLIPPER READY FOR 1500-MILE GUAM DASH

Wake Island, Pacific Ocean, Nov. 27 (Wednesday)—beyond International date line—America's greatest air argosy, Pan-American Airways' giant seaplane, "China Clipper," waited the word of her commander at dawn today to send her hurtling toward Guam, 1800 miles away.

Fueled and inspected, the record-breaking clipper ship of the skies pointed her sleek prow toward the golden dawn for the fourth leg of the 2000-mile flight from California to the Philippines.

Still carrying its precious cargo of seven men, air mail and cargo, the China Clipper was ready to maintain its at-yet-unbroken record for punctuality.

With about 5000 miles of open ocean flying behind it, the ship has only 1000 miles to go before the outmost American possession is reached.

Captain Edwin C. Musick, veteran pilot, who is in command of the clipper, is expected to arrive in Manila after a good night's sleep following the 1200-mile flight here from Midway Island.

On the hop to this point, nine passengers were carried, all of them employees of the company. Four of them, however, the Chinese boys, were brought here to serve the base officers stationed on this tiny coral atoll.

Following today's hop to Guam, there remains only 1700 miles of open water before Manila is reached.

This is the destination of the present pioneering air mail flight, but the next trip, scheduled to leave Alameda on December 8, will be flown by the Philippine Clipper all the way to China.

Nothing untoward occurred on the flight from Midway. Captain Musick said. For the first 600 miles the plane was buffeted somewhat by a headwind, but at about the halfway mark a tail wind was picked up on schedule.

The magic of radio, which gives the plane directional signals every ten minutes, kept the nose pointed for this tiny island.

All seven members of the crew went about their duties with customary nonchalance during the 8 hours and 38 minutes required for the hop.

Only the four Chinese mess boys showed any emotion. They huddled in their seats, speaking at rare intervals.

face screwed up in a little-girl grimace as she added, "except for toothache."

"Won't they let you have a dentist in jail?" queried.

She shook her head, and touched her cheek with a rueful finger.

"I've asked and asked. At first it only asked a little—I have pretty good teeth and never have had much trouble with them. But it has been getting worse, and two or three times lately it's been pretty bad."

"Then I asked what she did in jail to pass the time."

"I read," she answered. "I'm very fond of reading, and they do let me have books and papers and magazines, besides my letters. I write letters, of course, and listen to the radio."

"I try to keep doing something all the time."

"When everything is over in the way you hope it will be over, what do you want to do?" I inquired.

"I want to give my mother a good long rest and help her to get her health and rebuild her shattered nerves. It has been terrible for her."

"I've myself, what I'd like best now is to go to New York and become a nurse."

ALL RUSSIANS WATE STALIN RULE, NIEDBALLA SAYS

Walter Niedballa was one of a group of 48 mechanics who, in 1933, were induced to Russia and to take all their equipment and savings with them. All of them were especially trained at a Soviet-controlled school in Brooklyn, N. Y., for service in the Soviet.

Upon arrival in Russia, all were swindled out of their savings and equipment. One was murdered and another driven to suicide. Like most of the others, Niedballa was returned penniless to the United States.

Niedballa has prepared a series of articles showing precisely what happened to him and his 47 associates as victims of the "Soviet slave traffic." The eighth article appeared Monday in the Boston Evening American. The ninth and concluding article follows:

By WALTER NIEDBALLA

A great model farm without drinking water, without firewood or coal at 35 below zero, without sufficient food to keep body and soul together, such was the Alexandrov State farm when I returned to it in January, 1934.

This was the promised land to which we had looked forward in Brooklyn a year earlier and for which we had sacrificed all hard-earned possessions.

I watched the men go into the woods after working hours to chop down trees for firewood.

The only well on the farm was frozen. I watched men and women gather up snow and melt it. Many of the workers went unwashed for weeks.

Famine Threatens Comrades
The shortage of food was acute. The men had not been paid for two months. I came from Moscow armed with papers signed by Walekain, the commissar of the state farms of the Soviet Union, and put up a vigorous fight for my unhappy comrades.

I was threatened to be shot. Our Communist leaders had a paper drawn up charging me with all kinds of counter-revolutionary acts. I was taken to Moscow and put through the third degree, but was released through the efforts of Mr. Sanger. Nothing came of my attempt to develop a device for tractor repairs.

It was with the greatest difficulty that I was able to secure my passport from the Soviet Bureau which held it, and to get out of the country.

A number of my companions on the United States journey to Russia are still stranded there, deprived of their papers, added with Soviet citizenship, sold into bondage for life.

I arrived in America poverty-stricken and spent many weary months looking for employment. But how can I describe the joy of freedom, the thrill of being out of the atmosphere of terror?

Red Propaganda Poisons America
Yet I found that the Communist propaganda which misleads our entire group is still poisoning the minds of the American public.

Before going to Russia, I believed that the American newspapers do not print the truth about Soviet progress. Now that I have been there, lived and worked there, I realize how difficult it is to fathom the real truth about Russia.

Nowhere in the world are all the sources of information so completely controlled by the government as in the Soviet Union. There is no country in the world from which it is so hard for its citizens to escape as Soviet Russia. The Russian workers and peasants live in an underworld created by the government.

Reception, Tea, Wellesley Girl's "First" Debut

While most debutantes have had one formal debut party, Miss Constance Virginia Carter of Wellesley College and Detroit, Mich., will have two. The first of these was held at Wellesley Inn and was a reception to Miss Carter's college friends. There were 200 guests. Four members of Wellesley faculty acted as pourers. Among close friends of the debutante who attended, shown grouped about the Detroit girl, are Kathryn Canfield of Detroit, Jane P. Mutter of Detroit, Miss Carter, Mary F. Ward of Syracuse, N. Y.; Betty Zacher of Hartford, Ct., and Catherine Liden of Detroit.

RULING SOUGHT IN TOBIN TILT

A ruling from City Solicitor Edmund L. Toomey was awaited today in the latest Cambridge case in the dispute in which John M. Tobin is serving as assistant superintendent of schools while Mayor Richard H. Russell has served notice that he will not sign a payroll warrant which includes Tobin's name.

Tobin took over his office yesterday as a result of action last week at an uproarious meeting of the school board.

At that time, it was charged that the mayor and his supporters sought to prevent the election of Tobin despite the fact that he was the choice of a majority of the committee.

Now Mayor Russell charges that the election was illegal—that action on his nomination was not developed a week that the committee was actually in recess at the time the vote was taken, and that the vote was by voice and not by ballot as required.

The mayor further warned Superintendent of Schools Michael R. Fitzgerald that if he allowed Tobin to act as his assistant, he did so at his own risk.

DEBUT AT COLLEGE

200 Guests Greet Detroit Girl

Most debutantes consider themselves fortunate in these days of business depression to have one formal debut party, but Miss Constance Virginia Carter, who is a sophomore at Wellesley College, is having two large parties, one in Wellesley and the other in Detroit at Christmas time.

The one in Wellesley was held yesterday, a tea and reception to Miss Carter's Wellesley friends, in the ball room of the Wellesley Inn. Miss Carter, her mother, Mrs. George Carter of Detroit, and seven of their out-of-town friends formed the reception line in a small flower-banked alcove at the entrance to the ballroom.

The entire ballroom was banked with flowers and the guests enjoyed their tea at small round tables set about the room. The imposing serving table in the center was decorated with flowers and candles and had a cover of silver metal cloth.

Four members of the Wellesley College faculty acted as pourers. More than 200 guests, including several male members of the Wellesley faculty, signed the guests book and were announced by the butler at the door before entering the ballroom to greet the hostesses.

FACTS
Washington, Nov. 26.—Before the Roosevelt administration took office in March, 1933, the Government employed in Washington totaled about 66,000.

Three New Deal agencies alone now employ nearly that number. They are the Works Progress Administration, about 30,000; Reconstruction Division, about 15,000 and Public Works Administration about 10,000, or a total of about 55,000.

LYNCH THREATS IN GIRL KILLING

Fresno, Cal., Nov. 26 (U.S.)—Lynch threats rumbled through San Joaquin Valley today as hundreds of farmers joined the hunt for the blond girl who was kidnapped by the Stammer family.

The lynch threats were so widespread Sheriff George Overholt instructed his deputies not to bring their prisoners to Fresno if they were convinced they had the right man.

While the most determined hunt in the history of Fresno was underway, private funeral services for the blonde girl were to be held.

Authorities were inclined to believe the girl was slain by a youth who had made himself acquainted with the interior of the Stammer home.

It was in this home the girl was slain. Her maddest killer fired a .22-caliber pistol or rifle bullet from outside at his victim who was in her father's library Sunday night reading a law book.

READ THESE CONTEST RULES

This page, in addition to appearing in today's issue of the Boston American will also be published in the December 4—11—and 18th issues of the Boston American. In this issue, and the other three issues named, there will be special items advertised by the merchants whose names appear on this page. In each instance these items will be designated "This Is The Christmas Tree Item." Here's what you need to do in order to compete:

1. Take today's issue and find the Christmas Tree Contest Items appearing in today's advertising columns. Then print them or otherwise arrange them under the proper merchant's names in the designated circles above.
2. Follow the same plan on each of the subsequent issues of December 4—11—and 18.
3. Select any ONE page of the series of four and COLOR the entire page in any manner you please.
4. Then bring or send ALL FOUR PAGES, including the one colored page, to the "Christmas Tree Contest Editor," 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston, Mass. ON OR BEFORE 12 NOON, FRIDAY, DEC. 20.

READ THESE CONTEST RULES

5. The four pages most nearly correct, including the decorated page considered neatest and most artistic, will receive the first prize award. The additional prizes will be awarded in order of correctness and attractiveness of the colored pages. Prizes will be mailed in time to reach winners on Monday, December 23. In the event of ties, duplicate awards will be given.
6. Anyone is eligible to compete except employees of Hearst Newspapers in Boston and family members.
7. The judges will be responsible people not connected with the Hearst Newspapers. Their decisions shall be considered final. No entries will be returned.
8. It is not necessary to buy copies of the Boston American in order to compete. Copies may be seen at the office of publication, 5 Winthrop Sq., Boston, or at the Public Library. Tracings or drawings of these pages may be submitted.
9. Save ALL the pages until FOUR have appeared, then submit them on or before 12 noon, December 20.
10. Entrance in the contest implies acceptance of all rules hereby given.

HOLLAND

PEABODY

Group Revives
Anderson
Drama

By GEORGE HOLLAND

As the third and final play of its Boston repertory, the Associated Actors Theater last night revived Maxwell Anderson's "Gods of the Lightning" at the Peabody Playhouse.

This is the play that New York saw first at the Little Theater, with Sam Hays and Charles Bickford in the roles of Roscoe and Mac Greedy. This is the play which played the case of the accused party with redneckism who might have been a hero in the hands of Vasselli, followed for purposes of drama, or not followed at all if your definition of a play is to be a play.

In a private session, directed by Mr. Anderson, who has returned from Moscow, and who was the first of the New York stage, there is no making it clear and Vasselli, implication, pictures of these are as faded in the third act.

This is a departure from the original, a I WANT YOU ONLY

By Elenore Meherin

CHAPTER FIFTEEN

One Wednesday morning when Nell planned to spend the night with Ricky and wanted to avoid her mother's questions, Mam said, picking nervously at her thumb nail: "Nellie, dear, can you spare me $10?"

"Ten dollars? Where in the world will I get ten dollars? I can't give you my carfare."

Mom shut the door and brandished it. "I've got to have it. I'm not extravagant. I had to have those calves. When you do it again—"

"I'm not blaming you, Mom. I just haven't any extra money." She thought of her stepfather's "extra" and added with heat:

"What do you expect me to do? I've got to get a penny of my own money."

But she went to the bureau drawer where her mother found a pile of money. She had saved for a long time, and she had a few dollars in her pocket.

"I'm never went behind. Even if I have to go to the store and buy a few dollars' worth of groceries."

Heart Heavy

Her heart was a package of pain. She had saved for a long time, and she had a few dollars in her pocket.

"I'm never went behind. Even if I have to go to the store and buy a few dollars' worth of groceries."

Sparkle-Cloth or Matelasse Crepe for Afternoon

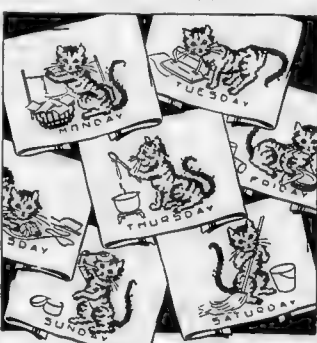

By ANNICE BRINK

MISS CAROLINE S. OWSON of Brookline models afternoon frocks that go in for simple detail, but splurge a bit as to fabric. Left, royal blue matelasse crepe has a notched edging on sleeves and peplum; and its neckline has a fat black satin cord laced through with rhinestone rings. Right, the camera has done a queer trick to a frock of "Sparkle-Cloth," for to the eye the design of roses is not clearly apparent. One Evening American.

Kitten Towels

CROSS STITCH KITTEN TOWELS

PATTERN 1098

ALTHOUGH these kittens look a bit young to undertake all these household tasks, we're sure of one thing they'll help you with—dashing!

All through the week their amusing antics will make you almost enjoy this task.

Since they are worked in easy 8 to the inch cross and in outline stitch, you'll find you're plenty of time to run up a set for the Christmas gift. A bride would adore them—or a friend who's filling a hope chest.

MARY'S LETTER HAS UNUSUAL REQUEST

CHAPTER 308

By ADELE GARRISON

WITH DIFFICULTY

I repressed a smile at the way

Harriet's pride of family had been ruffled at the part of Mary's letter which told of her resolution never to cause her husband any more worry

over her possible lapses from the social decorum which should hedge the daughter-in-law of Philip Verizien.

"I wouldn't waste much worry over Mary's apparent humility," I told her.

"There's a bride just now, and very much in love. If Nell shows any signs of taking any advantage of her submissiveness to play the 'hard and master'—which incidentally, I don't think it will—Mary's own patience, it will be just too bad for her."

Mary's aunt smiled faintly.

"I suppose you are right," she said. "Mary has enough spirit to hold her own anywhere. But I can't agree with you one word. No, I am not a charming girl, but I am a woman. If Mary gives me any opportunity to do so, I will take it."

"Of course, Auntie Madge," she finished. "I couldn't let through this letter without asking you to do something for me. It's some thing I forgot, but something gloriously brown I'm going to use

my father-in-law's hair."

"I don't know what you mean,"

she said. "I don't know what you

INTRODUCTIONS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman

Please let me know if it is convenient to introduce a friend to another while riding on a bus or street car when you happen to all here there."

"We should definitely lean to the side of not making introductions when the meeting is unusual as this. Such introductions usually seem unnecessary

and usually seem forced and polite."

"But, on the other hand, I realize that many people feel 'right'

or disregarded when a friend

with them meets another friend and doesn't make an introduction."

"It is a ridiculous point of view to take, but it is true, nevertheless, and there is always a question as to whether or not the friend with whom we are has

this point of view."

"But usually if we make our greeting to the other person brief,

this introduction needn't be made."

In Europe, where they take introductions as more important than we do, an introduction made in a casual meeting of this kind is considered distinctly ill-bred,

and one doesn't expect such an introduction. Indeed, it is taken for granted that it won't be made."

Here's one that plays up a prettily-scaled drop -

ADVICE on LOVE and MARRIAGE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Magic Hair Remover

Time to Let Up on Poor Mother-In-Law

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

IT SEEMS to me high time that the jokesmiths stopped hammering at the mother-in-law, for a daily stunt.

She has filled the comic strips and been the target for bitter humor, since "the memory of man runneth not to the contrary."

Before making a plea for this often domestic martyr, please let me say that I am not a mother-in-law, nor have I ever had one. There is nothing personal in my plea. But I have known countless women in that capacity who have been veritable angels of mercy in the homes of sons and daughters.

They have stayed home with the children, when their parents were out piddling and dancing. They have told them bedtime stories, even to their meals and clothes. And in these days, when marriage seems to have the effect of speeding up pleasure-mad young married people rather than helping them to settle down, it is well that someone in the home should be as sane and sane.

They have stayed home with the children, when their parents were out piddling and dancing. They have told them bedtime stories, even to their meals and clothes. And in these days, when marriage seems to have the effect of speeding up pleasure-mad young married people rather than helping them to settle down, it is well that someone in the home should be as sane and sane.

Wrong attitude. Scores of letters have come to this column from young married women who write to me for suggestions as to the best methods of dislodging their husbands' mothers from their own homes. The mother-in-law in question may be a home, may have helped to buy it through her thrift and savings, but her son-in-law thinks it's quite all right for her mother-in-law to step down and out—anywhere—so she leaves the coast clear for the bride.

I'm aware that not all mother-in-laws are easy to deal with. Sometimes they are managerial and meddlesome. But against the day when the young wife will no longer be young, and owing to some unfavorable turn in the wheel of fortune she may find herself dependent in the home of a son or daughter—let her stop.

Nearly all older women, including mother-in-laws, have a propensity to regulate the lives of those around them. It's a hangover from the days when they tried to keep the young well and civilized by insulating them from overwork, miffers, spinach for dinner and to "mind your manners."

It's irritating to be mothered and minded when you're sure of your own wisdom? But stop and think that all of this worrying and fussing on the part of an older woman is nothing more than misplaced devotion.

Older women are, of course, foolish to let their affections run away with them. What they should do is to relax, take the line of least resistance and let their adult children go their way. Mother-in-law with the wisdom of greater experience may see the pit waiting, but it's well to keep quiet and let the shock of tumbling into the pit do the moralizing.

A wife's influence over her husband is never more strongly illustrated than in the wars and menials her husband takes to make him forget the mother who bore him. There are men—and I have had men either—who never go to see their mothers, never write them letters, or remember them at Christmas or on birthdays. Women are seldom so inhuman.

And even if the wife's mother has no welcome at her son-in-law's fireside—her daughter never quite forgets MOTHER. Children who have never known the companionship of that most faithful of allies—a grandmother—have missed a good deal.

Dear Miss Fairfax: A year ago, the girl I love began with a man she had been known for some time. I knew all about the case, tried to console her, and she accepted me as sort of "second fiddle." But she makes no attempt to recover from this man's infidelity. He is married, happily, and I know about him, but when she goes into one of those "I'm so alone" moods, when she is thinking, she plays over all of his songs, re-reads his letters, and still keeps his picture on her bureau.

I'm getting sick and tired of playing "second fiddle" to a girl who doesn't know what she has had the boot, and I'm thinking of giving her the "I do" this time. I've talked it over, and then she becomes cheerful.

METALLIC silks glitter all over the winter scene, in cocktail frocks, evening gowns and formal blouses.

Rich lame turbans, in silver, gold and gunmetal are the last word for dinner wear, often trimmed with flowing aggrate.

ETHIOPIAN or just plain American, the silver mesh cape is something to make you a glamour-girl, whether you choose it in a shoulder cape or a sweeping hip-length cape.

You may have evening bags to match, and if you really like the armor idea, you also may wear a snood of matching silver mesh over your shining tresses.

THE METALLIC snood is one of the best bets of the season, being the favorite evening head-dress of the moment. It's shown in velvet, silk, mesh and metallized, and it has a nostalgic "Pride and Prejudice" air that is said to melt masculine hearts like an artichoke torch.

They haven't brought out any awards for evening wear yet, but you may expect them any minute—maybe a golden machine gun.

Here's why Heinz Tomato Juice has that "right-of-the-moment" flavor. From pedigreed seeds we produce world-famous tomato plants in our own greenhouses.

When they are transplanted in open fields and cultivated, every step is supervised by Heinz experts. Then when the tomatoes are red-ripe and luscious they are gathered and Heinz kitchens where the delicious rich juice is pressed and sealed in bottles and tins the very same day!

WHEN YOU GET bored dithering with depilatories—which everyone does every so often—there are certain definite things to be done in relation to getting rid of unwanted hair.

One of the very nicest of these is a wee, feminine razor, so perfectly constructed that it follows every curve. With unbelievable simplicity it translates an ordinarily tedious, disagreeable task into a pleasant ritual or home grooming.

There's real magic in its use, for not only does it remove the coarsest hair, quickly and easily, but it leaves the skin smooth and velvety. The whole affair is no bigger than a fifty-cent piece and fits into a lovely black enamel case, which in turn fits snugly into either hand bag or overnight case.

It is made especially for military use and boasts three surgical steel blades which assure perfect shaving results. It can be used in either hand and for removing underarm or leg hair, is "top" in the line.

Because of its really minute proportions it is particularly efficacious in combating unwanted "fluff" on either chin or cheeks. We have even tried it for removing a scrubby eyebrow growth and it worked like magic. The razor themselves are of such extraordinary keenness that hair comes off instantly without any fuss or unpleasant "pulling."

We can't help but feel that constant use of this sharp-edged razor will eventually weaken the hair roots. So if you have experimented with depilatories and found them not quite to your liking, try this little shaver. It's a safe and splendid bit and it will rid you of offending hair on the face and arms as nothing you have ever tried.

To learn the name of this miniature razor which is no bigger than a sheet piece, call Arline Gould, Liberty 4000, or write to her at the Boston Evening American, enclosing a stamped self-addressed envelope.

Health

Antitoxin Is Tetanus Cure

By ROYAL S. COLELAND, M.D.

TETANUS, or "lockjaw," is a disease which has been known for centuries.

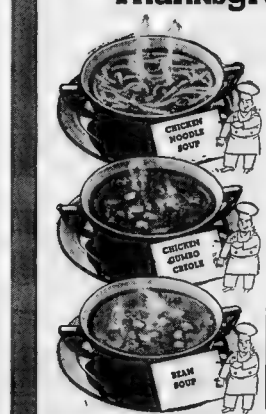

Tetanus is an acute infectious disease caused by a germ called the "bacillus tetani." This organism is found in the soil, in dirt, on rusty or soiled objects.

It enters the body through small cuts and abrasions which seem minor injuries, yet sufficient to permit its entrance. Once in the system the disease rapidly spreads, laying the poison liberated by the tetanus bacteria.

Fortunately, this serious attack can be prevented. This is accomplished by proper and prompt attention to the sterilization of all wounds and removal from them of all dirt and infectious material. In addition to care of the wound, it is important that tetanus antitoxin be administered. This should be given to the victims of injuries which are associated with dirt and possibly contaminated material.

I am glad to say that the administration of tetanus antitoxin is a routine procedure in large hospitals. All known cases and emergency first-aid cases are immediately injected against tetanus. No informed person will deny that enforcement of this rule has reduced the number of cases of lockjaw and materially lessened the danger of serious complications.

Your soup must be perfect to start your Thanksgiving dinner

In the rush of Thanksgiving Day, it's grand to know your soup course will be perfect. It's sure to be—if you serve a Heinz Home-Style Soup. Velvety-smooth cream of mushroom, perhaps. Or a delicious consommé. Heinz Soups are made your way—the home way—by slowly simmering fresh, crisp vegetables or choice meats until flavor and richness are "browned-in." Jot down now on your shopping list, the soup you'll serve on Thanksgiving Day.

Princeton's Moist Mob: Scene At the Punchbowl

THE VARSITY VILLAGE of Princeton took on a Yuletide air as dusk settled after the Dartmouth game and the crowds dispersed through frozen lanes. Trees, shrubs and rooves wore mantles of snow, like frosting on confectioners' cakes.

Windows were postage stamps of yellow light against the gloom, whence came the strains of fiddle music and boisterous laughter. Shadowy figures in a carnival mood moved down the street of student clubs where lads live lives of Oriental luxury.

It was a holiday night as pictured on Christmas calendars, with an unusual number of co-educational tipsters lurking toward the trains; lads and lassies whose guzzling was induced from sitting on the frigid inclines and peering through a swirling blizzard.

It was a crowd that more nearly attained the high tipping standards of the prohibition era, when they used to drink with selfless abandon till the last white line was crossed. People who had overfortified themselves against the cold and were going home gloriously plastered in the gloaming.

Alcoholic Athletes

THERE WERE A LARGER number of conscientious souses performing their antics during the game, too, young ramparts with rakish hats and awry ulsters who appeared as volunteer cheer leaders, tight-walked the parapets or escorted each other in lurch dances along the sidelines.

Between the halves the usual lonely drunks played single-handed games by diving through asbestos-tackles for imaginary touchdowns, slithering muddy grooves through the snow until they achieved personal knockouts and revived each other from canteen gulps, to career on again.

But the grand, gallant, all-for-victory effort of the day was contributed by an unknown hero who cantered, coiless and hatless, out of the slopes and joined Dartmouth in a goal-line stand.

Miraculously he missed the Princeton fullback as he came splintering through and stood grooping at the goalie, taken plenty of chances. He'll try to bar the scoring road to the Maple Leafs tonight when the Toronto team invades the Garden. The Maple Leafs always are one of Bruins' bitterest rivals, and a near capacity crowd will see the battle. Only two goals have been scored against the Bruins this season. They'll try to maintain their record against the Leafs.

Rip-Snorter Promised at Garden

Both Leafs and Bruins Anxious to Climb

By Bill Grimes
Due to the fact that Maple Leafs have dropped three in a row and Bruins have been on the losing end of two of their three 1-0 conflicts, the fans are in for a real treat tonight at the Boston Garden.

Usually, when the Leafs hit town they are in the midst of a prolonged apert and are so far out in front of the other Canadian Division contenders that they could coast in and still win by a comfortable margin. By the same token, the Bruins are seldom holding up the American section.

After starting nine seasons with a wild 5-5 tie with New York Americans, Maple Leafs took the Rangers in both ends of a home and home series and then knocked off Canadiens, 7 to 2.

They were well on their way to make another runaway race of the International division.

Suddenly, the Leafs encountered a run of tough breaks. They were knocked out of a 4-3 game by the Chicago Blackhawks, and last Saturday the Montreal Maroons beat them, 8 to 2.

Although they did not cotton to the reverses handed them by Chicago and Maroons, Maple Leafs were not seriously concerned over the run of ill luck until Detroit Red Wings scored their first victory of the season at their expense.

I question if the Maple Leafs have lost three straight games, at this season of the year, since Connie Smythe took control.

Nor have the Bruins been a howling success. They have been on the losing end of two 1-0-0 games, and their only win of the year was a 1-0-0 victory over New York Americans.

Therefore, when they take the ice tonight, both Bruins and Maple Leafs will have their backs to the wall, and the fans will see one of the most hotly contested battles of the year.

Manager Dick Irvin will start Chuck Conacher, Joe Primas and Busher Jackson on the forward line, with Red Horner and King Clancy on the outer defense and George Hainsworth in the nets.

Bruins will open with the

Conroy Wendland line, with Dit Clapper and Red Beattie on the flank, while Eddie Shore and Babe

Sherbert will be on the defense protecting Tiny Thompson.

Eddie Finnigan, Bill Thoms and Bus Boll will be the first line of the Toronto replacement, and about half way through the opening period, Happy Day and Bill "Flash" Rollett will replace Clancy and Horner.

Charley Sands, Max Kaminsky and Jerry Shannon, who are rated by the fans as the best forward line as Manager Frank Patrick's back and call, will replace Clapper, Vol-lante and Day.

The Bruins are very much on the spot due to their week showing offensively, but if they can manage to slip out against the toughest team, they will have won their previous shortcomings.

Therefore, with a victory, the paramount thought in the minds of players on both teams, the fans will see a thrilling exhibition of the best of all winter sports.

vague forms until a plainclothesman galloped up with intent to knock him limp for easy removal.

In the momentary hullabaloo, the officials attempted to fix the souse's connection with rival teams. But the Dartmouth captain disowned him as a stray, or maverick drunk who was crashing the game without any rights to a varsity letter.

So the cop hauled the kid off as an illegal substitute and penalized him overnight in the guardhouse.

National League's Orphan

UNLESS THE NATIONAL LEAGUE fathers know a good financial bat trick, they may have to adopt the orphaned Braves during today's meeting in New York. The fresh funds which were to be rushed by Major Francis P. Murphy and his colleagues appear to have melted like Saturday's snow.

Thus the Braves seem further away from a happy landing than at any time since Judge Fuchs jumped through the porthole and swam ashore.

A week ago, when President Ford Frick and Bob Quinn came to Boston to talk with the stockholders, the club seemed to be satisfactorily refinanced with the Murphy Associates cutting themselves the largest slice.

Something happened.

This morning the major is sitting down with Frick in secret session before going into the league closet. He is not expected to ante his cash.

Then, if C. F. Adams, as majority owner, decides that his headache has gone far enough, there is only one course open: The league must pick up the pieces, including players, real estate and franchise and run it as a bankrupt concern.

If this happens, which will be only as a final resort, the present stockholders, from those holding only five shares like Nate Crook to Adams, who owns 8000, will be sponged off the slate with nothing but their pretty green engravings as souvenirs.

Finishing School for Scandal

QUESTION ARISES AS TO whether the State Boxing Commission or the Actors' Equity should have prior rights in punishing "Unknown" Winston, the dusky acrobat who did upsidown act against Jack Sharkey last Friday night.

Winston's crime, as I see it, was not in collapsing from a pat-tack punch so much as in failing to give a tasteless performance.

Instead of popping down at the "first light impact and assimilating the actions of a mortally wounded sea-cow, if Winston had taken on the gradual stages of glassy-eyed staring, the rubbery-legged wobble, the

LEWIS HANEY ON UPSWING:

U. S. Seasonal Lull IN HEAVY INDUSTRIES Less Than Last Year

By LEWIS HANEY
(Professor of Economics New York University)
New York, Nov. 26.—Business reports continue favorable. Last week the expected upswing occurred in retail trade, as seasonable weather developed and the first effects of the approaching holidays were seen. Doubtless an increase in government distributions through WPA also helped. Especially optimistic reports came from California and parts of the South.
It seems reasonably clear that any seasonal lull in the heavy industries will be rather less than usual this year.

The steel industry has stepped up production close to 53 per cent of capacity, which is notable, since a seasonal decline is usual. Partly this is due to the new automobile season, but unquestionably there has been some general broadening of demand for steel.
The automobile industry turned out some 94,000 cars against 90,000 the preceding week, and an output of 400,000 is expected for the month. No one knows whether this gain is more or less than a normal seasonal amount, for this is the first time the industry in general has shown new models at this time of year. No one knows how much of the current business is being taken away from next year. The motor products strike in Detroit is a threat. But the volume of sales is encouraging.

The lumber industry continues reactionary, and is further hurt by anticipation of Canadian imports under the new tariff arrangement. The cotton textile industry, too, has reacted a little, and the manufacturers' margin between raw cotton prices and goods prices has declined. This, however, is a seasonal phenomenon, as demand for goods is picking up again, and prices have firmed.

While the situation as to building activity is somewhat mixed, the general trend is upward, with the auto industry so far the leading producer of glass, paints, and hardware are expanding production earnings.

The chief dark tint in the industrial picture continues to be the carloadings. For the second week these declined more than usual. Of course, they are above a year ago. It is foolish even to mention that obvious fact, because a year ago business was but little above the bottom of the depression. But the reasonably cautious observer will note that unless railway shipments pick up soon, it will become apparent that goods are being produced faster than they are being sold.

Meanwhile, commodity prices have shown little average change. Wheat and hog went up. Semi-finished steel was marked up. Steel scrap rebounded. But international commodities declined, including coffee, tin, rubber, hides, and silk. Evidently the threat of a collapse in the gold price is suggesting the usual "deflationary" effects in the world market.

The political news was most important.

On the side of the politicians who are "in," we find the Roosevelt administration taking the following steps:

- (1) Announced that federal "relief" will be continued indefinitely.
 - (2) Announced that no inflation exists, and gave such a definition of inflation that they will not admit that any exists until it is too late. They will do nothing to prevent further inflation.
 - (3) Announced that the Department of Justice will not try to enforce the criminal provisions of the Utility Holding Company Act, pending decisions as to its constitutionality.
- On the side of business, a growing revolt was apparent. Several utility companies refused to register under the SEC, and took steps to test the Utility Act in the courts. The railways moved to attack the Pension Act. A coal company brought suit to have the Guffey Act invalidated.

The Associated General Contractors of America issued a statement that "the Government is spending too much money in absorbing too much of the government's spending, and that Congress' provision that full use be made of the facilities of private enterprise, is being ignored."

Other highly important developments were (1) the resignation of John L. Lewis, head of the Miners' Union, from the A. F. of L., and (2) the New York court decision against manufacturers' retail price fixing, which may apply the Federal antitrust law, and lead to more radical labor policies.

BROKERS' COMMENT

Paine, Webber & Co.—The recent concentration of bullish observations on the status of business and recovery, and the fact that various public and semi-private sources, should not be given too much weight in forming new trading policies at this juncture. Developments which are so obvious as to become almost universally known, are not likely to have been overlooked by the stock market in its discounting process.

Shields & Co.—The Washington list of credit markets for the week ending Nov. 25, shows that the market is likely to have holders of stocks will take profits and pay for their losses. The market is likely to have holders of stocks will take profits and pay for their losses.

Hornbaker & Weeks—We would maintain a constructive attitude toward the market, and the outcome of the current trading period.

Joseph & Co.—The utilities appear to be in a position to be more active in the market, and to be more active in the market.

Dividend

F. E. Myers & Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common, payable Jan. 2, 1935. The company's earnings for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1934, were $1,000,000.

EAGLE May Fly AGAIN IN FARM EXPORTS

NRA FUTURE CONSIDERED

By Gene Robb
Washington, Nov. 26.—The NRA Blue Eagle may try to fly again. Co-ordinator of American exports, Mr. George Berry has invited industry and labor to meet in Washington, December 9 to consider the sort of future for the National Recovery Administration.

New Deal lawyers are re-exploring the Constitution, seeking some clause on which a revived NRA could be legally pegged.

One of the few surviving organs of NRA—voluntary groups—has been quitted by the Labor Advisory Board, although President Roosevelt asked industries to get back into the NRA. The NRA labor board says such "gentlemen's agreements" are unenforceable. It wants the NRA to stay. It wants the NRA to stay.

Unsuccessful

In January Congress seems to consider the Walsh proposal to apply NRA rules to all industries which have government contracts. The proposal is to be considered by the Supreme Court, after the Supreme Court, after the Supreme Court.

The "deflationary" effect in the world market. The "deflationary" effect in the world market. The "deflationary" effect in the world market.

On the side of the politicians who are "in," we find the Roosevelt administration taking the following steps:

- (1) Announced that federal "relief" will be continued indefinitely.
- (2) Announced that no inflation exists, and gave such a definition of inflation that they will not admit that any exists until it is too late. They will do nothing to prevent further inflation.
- (3) Announced that the Department of Justice will not try to enforce the criminal provisions of the Utility Holding Company Act, pending decisions as to its constitutionality.

On the side of business, a growing revolt was apparent. Several utility companies refused to register under the SEC, and took steps to test the Utility Act in the courts. The railways moved to attack the Pension Act. A coal company brought suit to have the Guffey Act invalidated.

The Associated General Contractors of America issued a statement that "the Government is spending too much money in absorbing too much of the government's spending, and that Congress' provision that full use be made of the facilities of private enterprise, is being ignored."

BROKERS' COMMENT

Paine, Webber & Co.—The recent concentration of bullish observations on the status of business and recovery, and the fact that various public and semi-private sources, should not be given too much weight in forming new trading policies at this juncture. Developments which are so obvious as to become almost universally known, are not likely to have been overlooked by the stock market in its discounting process.

Shields & Co.—The Washington list of credit markets for the week ending Nov. 25, shows that the market is likely to have holders of stocks will take profits and pay for their losses. The market is likely to have holders of stocks will take profits and pay for their losses.

Hornbaker & Weeks—We would maintain a constructive attitude toward the market, and the outcome of the current trading period.

Joseph & Co.—The utilities appear to be in a position to be more active in the market, and to be more active in the market.

Dividend

F. E. Myers & Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common, payable Jan. 2, 1935. The company's earnings for the quarter ended Dec. 31, 1934, were $1,000,000.

TRADE UP IN NEW YORK

Substantial Wholesale Increase

In September total sales of the wholesale firms in the New York district, reporting to the Federal Reserve Bank, averaged 13.1 per cent higher than last year. With the exception of the increase in July, the gain was the most substantial recorded this year.

Sales of cotton goods and diamonds made the most favorable comparisons with a year previous since the spring of 1934, yardage sales of silk goods showed the most substantial advance since the fall of 1934, and sales of hardware and stationery were above a year ago by the largest percentages—seven to nine months.

The increases reported by the grocery, shoe, drug, paper and jewelry concerns were larger than in the previous month, and sales of men's clothing were up a year ago by almost as large a percentage as in August.

It is significant that the two lines showing the largest increases, diamonds and jewelry, are classified as luxuries. When New Yorkers can feel free to indulge once again in luxuries, a change in prosperity can't be so far away.

The rally will be used in a re-estimation program covering 300 miles of line in the next 18 months. Union Pacific has received lumber and materials valued at $2,700,000 for rebuilding 1930 box cars and installation of Deane auto loaders in 251 auto cars being remodeled.

A total of $1,500,000 is also being expended for lumber and materials for rebuilding an additional 500 automobile cars and coupling these also with Deane auto loaders and for rebuilding 700 other box cars.

NOR. & WESTERN Earnings Given

Norfolk and Western Railway Company reports for October average earnings of $2,400,000, or $2.25 a share, compared with $2,100,000, or $2.00 a share, for the same month last year.

The French government has closed its doors to the world market, and the position of the government of Premier Laval remains most delicate, pending Thursday's meeting of the Council of Experts.

British government bonds closed at 100.00, and the position of the government of Premier Laval remains most delicate, pending Thursday's meeting of the Council of Experts.

Rich to Preside At Meeting

George A. Rich, secretary of the Board of Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank, will preside at a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank, which will be held on Thursday, November 29, at 10:00 a.m.

The meeting is being held at the Hotel Waldorf-Astoria, New York, and will be attended by the members of the Board of Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank, and by the members of the Board of Directors of the Federal Reserve Bank.

Tragedy in Hospital Children's Ward

Crazed Father Tries to Kill "Woman in White"

By FLOYD GIBBONS

Publication of your story may be delayed a bit while Floyd is in the war zone, because of the time it takes him to reach him. Floyd asks all his adventures to "the patient with a hard workin' teller."

HELLO EVERYBODY:

Our story today is from Graduate Nurse Jacqueline Yeoman of Second street and Franklin Avenue, Pequanock, N. J. Nurses have a lot of adventure stories tied up under their pretty white uniform caps if they would only tell them. Adventure is such a part of their daily work that they become used to it and often fail to realize of what great interest it holds for us outsiders.

I ran into a touching little incident of hospital life this summer, while calling on the Adventurers' Club June prize winner, who underwent an operation for a crippled condition. A young nurse dashed into the room where I was waiting. There were tears in her eyes which she dabbed at with a tiny handkerchief. Nurses see many sad things in their work of mercy and I was interested in knowing what had brought on this unusual let-down. She recovered quickly and told me:

"I was just talking to a girl patient in the next room," she told me, "she is recovering from a serious operation and we were speaking of a boy we both knew. I knew the boy as a patient in the hospital. I was his nurse. She knew him as a childhood sweetheart. He was one of the nicest patients I ever had. She was very nice, too, but very sick and when she spoke of him I had to lie to her and it made me cry."

"Why?" I asked.

"Because," the nurse said, "I couldn't tell her that the boy had occupied her room and that the day before she entered the hospital he had died IN THAT VERY BED!"

Just an incident of hospital life. Here's another: Mrs. Yeoman was a nurse in a Long Island hospital back in 1925. She was the head nurse of the children's ward and had an assistant nurse and one student nurse under her. The ward was in a wing with only one outlet, which was through a corridor to the main airway. This is important as you will see.

"In March," Nurse Yeoman writes, "a sick child of Italian parents was admitted to my ward. The child was in the last stages of influenza and had obviously been sent to the hospital too late to save her little life."

"She was four years of age and suffering miserably. Her parents were very excitable and illiterate and had only agreed to the hospital after long persuasion. This drama sealed the fate of the child."

"Nevertheless we did all we could for the little girl and as usual worked feverishly over such a serious case. Every effort was made to fan the tiny spark of life that remained, into life."

"The parents in their ignorance were obstructing our efforts and the doctors had given orders that they were to be excluded from the ward and only to be admitted in the last extremity. They waited downstairs and we went on with our work."

"The usual routine of the hospital must go on and I was at lunch and my assistant and one student in the ward when the child's condition became aggravated. A hypodermic was immediately administered as per the doctor's instructions but the child failed to rally."

"The little girl was plainly passing so the parents were hurriedly called to her bedside. They arrived in a flurry of nervous excitement to find their baby dead. Then sorrow drove them mad."

"The father with a snarl drew out a long dagger. He was in such a position that he blocked the only exit. He turned his blazing black eyes on Miss Nulty—the student nurse—and made for her."

"YOU KEE! MY BABINO! HE SCREAMED. NOW I KEE! YOU!"

"Miss Nulty avoided the rush of the grief-crazed man and ran for the dressing room. There was no lock on the door but she tried to hold it as the man fought to get at her. My assistant nurse was nearer the door. She dashed out for help."

"And at this moment—entirely unconscious of danger—I walked into the ward. I was amazed to find it empty except for the mother and the father."

"My first duty was to examine the chart of the most serious case and I was just doing so when the man leaped at me."

"I saw the knife gleaming in his hand. I backed away from him as well as I could but I was so terrified that I could not think."

"I saw the knife come up over his head—his eyes were the eyes of a maniac and his lips were curled back from his teeth in murderous hate."

"In another second the knife, I am sure, would have found an easy mark in my body, but at that second a rush of footsteps came into the room. The distracted father turned from me to find himself in the hands of police and intercom who had rushed to the ward."

Just an incident of hospital life! And while this little incident was going on a serious operation was being performed in the operating room just a few feet away. The father, I was glad to hear, recovered and was not prosecuted. Grief at the loss of his child had driven him temporarily insane.

Floyd Gibbons, famous war correspondent, author and adventurer, wants YOU to collaborate with him in writing the story of YOUR most thrilling moment. Floyd believes that everyone has had at least one hair-raising adventure. He is bringing the adventures of Boston together in a city-wide Adventurers' Club, and he wants YOU to become a member. You can join simply by sending your adventure story to Mr. Floyd. And the only membership fee is the $10 that Floyd pays YOU for every story he prints in his column. YOU can win prizes for your story, too. For details, see next column.

HOW TO WIN
$100.00
And Membership in The Floyd Gibbons Adventurers' Club

Earn $10 just by writing a letter. Win $100 for that same letter. Everyone is eligible, and the only rule is this: YOUR STORY MUST BE TRUE. Just write down the facts of your most thrilling adventure and mail them to Floyd Gibbons, care of the Boston Evening American. Don't worry about how well you can write. Floyd will whip your story into shape if necessary. He will pay $10 for each story printed and an extra $100 for the best yarn of the month. Keep a copy of your story. NO STORY CAN BE RETURNED. And do not send valuable pictures or souvenirs. Send the Facts.

ON AIR

Some weeks ago, when chills began to supplant balm in the air and radio listening interest heightened in the homes, a striking young soprano sang as a guest artist with the distinguished and popular Lawrence Tibbett.

For many weeks, following her debut, she has been heard by Tibbett in take another effort to show that in the "radio" world, she is no less a singer than in the "stage" world.

Her first appearance, when she sang with Tibbett, was in the "radio" world, and her second, when she sang with Tibbett, was in the "stage" world.

$1000. What does the tax collector look like? For the best cartoon conception of the latest national pet, the Hearst newspapers are going to pay $10,000.

They want a cartoonist instantly recognizable; a figure that will portray the oppression of excessive taxes as accurately as Rodin's blacked character expressed the harassment of the prohibition; as Homer Davenport's over-fed corporation baron expressed the greed of the grasping trusts.

Every cartoonist, professional and amateur, is invited to submit his drawings before December 15 to the King Features Syndicate, 235 East 45th street, New York City, N. Y. Announcement of the prize competition was made in connection with the other jubilee of George McManis' popular comic strip, "Bringing Up Father."

DRAW A TAX GRABBER

You May Win Jiggs' $1000 Prize

Today is the 25th anniversary of Jiggs and Maggie.

It is the 25th anniversary of George McManis' inspired cartoon strip, and that should remind you that a $1000 prize awaits the artist who creates a figure that will best portray the oppression of excessive taxes.

The prize is to commemorate the anniversary of a great cartoonist.

PORT OF BOSTON

Four and half-toned Mary Graham was the youngest of 11 passengers to disembark here on the Cunard White Star liner, which docked last night at P. East Boston.

Little Anne, returning with her mother, Mrs. William B. Graham, after a four-month visit in Scotland with friends and relatives, left Boston last night by train for her home in Weymouth.

Among other passengers that disembarked here were Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Davidson, of Apawam, New Brunswick, who returned from a motor tour of Ireland.

John C. Kimpson, of Weymouth, was the first to disembark after completing his third trip to England.
